THEAREPUBLICAN

Devoted to Literature, News of the Day, Agriculture, and Important Local Intelligence, Etc.

VOLUME VII.

MARYVILLE, TENNESSEE, SATURDAY, APRIL 4, 1874.

W. J. BETTERTON & BRO.

Knoxville, Tennessee.

Distillers.

Whiskes, Brandies, and Wines,

A S they make their own whichies, they know them to be perfectly PURE. They offer to the trade CORN WHISKY, I

WHITE RYE WHISKY, SILVER SPRAY WHISKY.

XXXX Roane County Whisky.

Lawrence,

UPPER LEATHER.

Harness Leather, Kip Skins, etc.,

Springfield, Tennessee,

Dry Goods, Groceries, Hardware, Queensware, Notions, etc.

cash paid for Hides, at advanced prices, delivered at my Yard.

SAVE MONEY! PATRONIZE CHAS, PFLANZE'S

NEW FURNITURE STORE.

Maryville, Tennessee.

Keep contatantly on hand, and make to order, every variery of Furniture, from the cheapest to the finest and most elegant styles.

Coffine made to order and kept constantly on hand.

Give mea trial. All work walranted to be as represented. Prices cheap for cash.

Salesroom and factory first door north of C. Batter's tin shop.

S. M. WELLS

Shoes, Collars

LEATHER, ETC., -

The Temperance Revival.

does not apparently weaken in genuine

The temperance revival has attained to a wide variety of manifestations, but carnestness and persistent purposes. It continues to break forth in new places, How to Discourage Your Minister. and everywhere attacks the local weakpoint of the liquor interest, in a manner in a little late. Do not sing; adapted to the character of the community. Nothing new is reported in the community. Nothing new is reported in the continuous factors and the first the continuous factors are approached in the continuous factors. munity. Nothing new is reported in take a little sleep during the sermon, so the closing of saloons on Sunday, and him know that you won't help him, behave been hooted and jeered by the cause A. B. does, because you were not "Will the Sunday ordinance. They were attended adverse criticisms on himself.

In Pittsburg and Affegheny, Pa., the | 3. Censure his efforts at usefulness;

5 Tell him, when he calls, what a large force of police had to serve as except. The council in their presence used to drop in for an hour's chat and supervised in the ready at a moment's notice.

ing licenses in quantities not less than a gallon, on such conditions as the gen-ing licenses in quantities less than a duties and sometimes gees abroad, gallon, conditionally as above; the one complain that he is never at home. accepted to be an article of the consti-sider it a fanaticism, which will ways at some to receive callers, and aldie ont as the warm weather ap-proaches. One of the new elements always well prepared for pulpit and of the warfare, in Cincinnati and Chilli- platform, you will be sure to have just Spring! Spring cometh, tay dearest!

Come to the woods, and greet her with me.
Fast, 'neath their thick leaves, the May flowers growing: So grows my persionate love, sweet, for thes.

Spring! Spring cometh, my darling!
Lift thy brown eyes, and greet her with me.
Down from the hill-sides the brooklets are the

WELCOME TO SPRING.

Spring! Spring cometh, my darling!
In the cool syening greet her with me.
On the coy violets, des-drops are falling;
So may God's blessings fall sweetly on thes. MANY A TIME AND OFT.

When the house is still, and the day is done,
And the slare are out slott.

I sit by the felling fire alone.
And think of the years that are past and got Many a time and oft.

I dream of that village beside the sea;
I dream of that eat by the trysting tree,
And of one who will never come hack to me. of one who will never come back to me; Ah! many a time and oft!

When the city is hushed and the chimes are still And the voices of the crowd are soft.

My thoughts wander on at their own wild will,
And my tears fall fast, and my heart is chill,
Many a time and off.

I drawm of the hopes all faded and fied,
Of the vow that's broken, the shaft that's spec

TWO QUEENS.

One rainy evening toward the close of April 1791, a ponderous old travel-ing coach toiled wearily up the hill, the summit of which is crowned by the ansummit of which is crowned by the ancient town of Jongne, on the road between Lons les Saulniers and Bessneon, the capital of the province of Franche-Comte. There were two women in the vehicle; one, tall, handsome, and exceedingly elegant, occupied the seat facing the h rses; the other, who sat opposits to here was a towner person of opposite to her, was a young person of opposite to her, was a young person of sprightly countenance, whose simple costume and deferential manner announced her at once to be either a waiting maid or a dame de compagne. From time to time one or the other of the two travelers would thrust her head out of the carriage window to urge on the postilion or look back down the road, apparently to see whether any one were following.

Notwithstanding the entreaties of the ladies, and his own best endeavors, Maitre Jacques, the postilion, failed miserably in his attempts to induce his two heavy Flemish horses to get into a trot, let alone a gallep. The road was so bad, the rain so blinding, the ruts so many, the mud so deep, that the best the poor beasts could do in response to their master's oaths and loud cracks of the whip was to give an occasional jerk forward, or a stumble, and then resume their wonted funeral pace,

Heaven help me, Susanne! This dreadful journey will never end; we cannot possibly reach Besancon to-night," observed the lady who sat with her face to the horses. "Mon Dien; how I wish we were all over it and

"Madame is too nervous; that gentleman on horseback we have seen at the last three stations, and who has followed us, has frightened her. Believe me, I am sure he is no spy; he is too nice for that. I am persuaded that he is only fascinated by madame's charms, and has not recognized her. Oh, he is no more a sansculotte than I am." "It matters very little what you think about him; I have my fears, and my reasons for having them. Put your head out once more, and see if he is still in sight." Susanne did as she was bid, and presently shutting down the window as quick as she could to prevent the rain from pouring in, gave her mistress the reassuring news that not only had the obnoxions stranger disappeared, but also that the gate of Jougne was close at hand. "And, madame, through a break in the clouds I saw-the mountains of

"That is well, we will stop for sup-per here at the Lion d'Or, and then hasten on to Besancon this very night, said her mistress. In a few moments more the carriage rumbled through the narrow streets of Jougne, and presently stopped under the parte cochere of the hotel of the

"Will the ladies get down?" said the jolly innkeeper as he stood with the half opened door in one hand and his cap in the other, bowing with extra civility to his two new gnests, and delighted at the prospect of their being detained all nnce—22 to 14. They were escorted in their retreat by the police, who with difficulty prevented the howling mob from doing violence to the women, who were all of the highest respectability.

The demonstration in the releasing ordination of the highest respectability.

The demonstration in the releasing ordination of the highest respectability.

The demonstration is added in the women of the highest respectability.

The demonstration is added in the women of the highest respectability.

The demonstration is added in the properties of the postulation, in the releasing ordination of the highest respectability.

The demonstration is added in the properties of the postulation in the postulation is a properties of the postulation in the postulation i illuminated dining room. A fire crackled cheerfully on the hearth, and the large apartment, with many little tables covers of the municipality. They found ered with snew-white cloths and shining glass, lcoked quite eosy. The la-dies, taking off their wraps, seated themselves by the fire, and presently the landlady drew in front of them a table on which she placed two smoking

The bright light of the fire threw its cheerful glare on the countenance of the tell lady, and showed her to pos-sess such rare and stately beauty that in which still lingered traces of powder, lie to those of her enemies who declared she used paint. The only defect that could be possibly found with this other-wise perfect face was that the lower lip, slightly too thick, protruded a little beyond the upper one, as is frequently observed in portraits of the sovereigns of the house of Austria.

Her costume was simple, consisting of a gray petticoat and a flowered chintz overskirt, made in the fashion recently so popular and styled "Dolly Varden." Her attendant, whom she called Sasanna, was a pretty and unpertending young woman belonging to the viya-cious class of French serving-maids marchais as soubrettes.

The two travelers had scarcely tas ed their first spoonful of soup when the doors of the apartment were thrown open, and a fonctionnaire of the provisionary government, wearing his tri which he colored scarf, entered. Striding up to Paris. the table at which the two ladies were seated, he drew from his pocket a letter, an fixing his eyes with vivid interest on the tall lady, made a mental comparison between her countenance and that of some one described in the documents.

"M. le Maire! L. le Maire! we have air sted Polignac or Lamballe!" ument he held in his hand.

"What is your name, citoyenne?" that young man," asked he suddenly in a tone of an-

"May I first ask, sir, who it is I shall hav the honor of answering when I do give my name?" returned the lady, who, although she had become exceedingly pale, retained her self-possession in a remarkable manner, for it was no joke for a woman of position to fall into the hands of fonctionnaires in those days. I am the Mayor of Jougne."

"In that case, M. le Maire, I am Madame de Pryne." "Have you no papers about you-no

"Mon Dieu! Yes-no; that is, of course I have, but in my trunk," an-swered the lady. "We are only going to Besancon. This is my maid, Susanue; we are two women traveling on business. I have an engagement at Besancon; and really, M. le Maire, I had no idea passports were necessary when traveling in France."

"You said that you had one in your box, Very well, Madame de Pryne, allow me to see this passport." "Willingly; call in your men, and let papers are in it."

"It is at the bottom of all," said Madame de Pryse, rising as if to search for it herself.

for it herself.
"It is useless your troubling yourself, citoyenne. See! Look at these grand trains, these alone suffice to prove your gracious pardon." that you belong to the court, and intend emigrating into Switzerland," cried the willingly, and only see in your commayor, as he threw out of the box on duct," answered the queen smiling, but to the table several magnificent robes of with an evident meaning, for she fixed velvet, one of which was lined with ermine. "And here—here, my suspicions are more than confirmed. Ah! Madame de Pryne!—that is your only a proof of your desire to serve an Ah! Madame de Pryne!—that is your only a proof of your desire to serve an I have planned some campaigns, and or best generals to command the armies, and our best generals to command the armies are name, is it ?-and you wear a crown, do unfortunate woman and a fallen queen." tier with the crown jewels of France? I know who you are."

"Who?" asked Madame de Pryne, as pale as a sheet. "You are Marie Autoinette, of Austria, sometime queen of France.'

"Is the queen expected to pass this way in her flight?" "She is, and you know that better than any one. In the name of France passport?"

"Bah, a borrowed passport," said the mayor in an impatient tone. "You had better give yourself up, madame, without any further alo. Believe me, it will be for the best,"

"Then, sir," the lidy answered, rising majestically from her seat, and assuming an imperial attitude, "I am the

It would be difficult to imagine a more noble figure than that of the nnfortunate princess as she spoke these four words. Seeing that Susanne was from doing violence to the women, who were all of the highest respectability. The demonstration was dispaceful in the extreme. The women have attempted to persuade the mayor to valo the new ordinance, but in vaid. The battle are iff. of course he should know, and countingers in Ohio, Indiana, Idinois, when he comes are in a shocking state. We are iff. of course he should know, and countingers in Ohio, Indiana, Idinois, when he comes are in a shocking state. We are iff. of course he should know, and countingers in Ohio, Indiana, Idinois, when he comes are in a shocking state. We are iff. of course he should know, and countingers in Ohio, Indiana, Idinois, when he comes are in a shocking state. We all about egastic, bowed low before his fallen sovereign and retired at once to breakfast with the count at d Susanne when the mayor entered her presence, impatiently about to interrupt her, she vention has prepared three propositions to be submitted to the people; one absolutely prohibiting the manufacture of sale of intoxicating liquors; one allowing indeed, there are prudential reasons in a light bags you can find, for, since we must sleep here, we may as well make guard at the doors of the saloon, and ment. Arranging all his colleagues account of the saloon, and ment. On so decount ment, and to announce the followed by the whole municipanty and news of her capture to his fellow-citical news of her capture to his fel Susanne, loaded with rugs and satchels, followed her mistress into the house and the two travelers emerging from the shades of the hall entered the brightly. knees and prayed earnestly for divine or so of the municipality. They found the queen calm, and even cheerful. She toward her with royal grace, and when informed that the upper floor of the hotel was placed at her service until of them afterward remembered it as an instance of unusual self-command.

on her shoulder. Her complexion was cans, and, placing Marie Antoinette of singularly brilliant, and, varying constantly on the least emotion, gave the traitress before the national tribunal. Possessed as they were of her crown, sceptre, globe, and royal mantle, they could carry these emblems of fallen despotism in their triumphal procession, and offer them as a holocaust on the altar of liberty." An address to the national assembly, stating their intention, and giving the she cried out, "Eh, may the count go most minute details of the queen's arsigned by the entire conclave, and dispatched immediately to the capital. To this letter was added a private one from the queen herself, and so artfully was it sealed, that do what they could, it was impossible for them to read a immortalized by Moliere and Bean- single word of its' contents, Having dismissed the council, the mayor went once more to the queen, to inform her of what had been determined. Being a kind-hearted man, however, he spared her the knowledge of the manner in which he proposed to conduct her back

While he was conversing with her majesty, a gendarme hurriedly entered the chamber in a state of great excite-

"Ah!" exclaimed the queen, "it is "What young man?" inquired the "A gentleman who followed our cosch, that is all," answered she, in opposite Susanne.

some confusion, seeing that she had evidently committed an imprudence by this last observation. "Let him be brought up here imme-diately," commanded the mayor, and in a few moments a tall and remarkably the ground behind him. "It is the same," whispered Susanne;

perhaps he may help us." "Please God !" murmured the queen. No sconer was this young gentleman disengaged from the hands of his captors than, throwing himself on his knees, he raised her hand to his lips:

"Ah, general," I said, "but you will knees, he raised her hand to his lips: pected it was the queen of France to tablish our independence, the people whom I presumed to raise my eyes, I will make you Mr. Davis' successor." pected it was the queen of France to

"Oh, you have it, count; I grant it willingly, and only see in your con-you?" exclaimed the mayor, as he sud-denly rose from his inspection of the Notwithstanding all appearances to the box's contents, brandishing in one hand a crown studded with large gems, and in the other a sceptre. "Ah! ah!" He is arrested and shall share your in the other a sceptre. "Ah! ah!" He is arrested and shall share your laughed he exultingly, "Madame de apartments. The chamber at the end Pryne, so you were going over the fron-tier with the crown jewels of France? have, however, free access to the queen whenever she desires your presence, Mesdames, I wish you a very good-night! Citoyen, bon soir!" and bowing civilly the good mayor withdrew for the

When the door was closed on the mayor the count was about to withdraw also, but the queen prevented his doing so, entreating him to remain and parand the law I arrest you."

"Without any further proofs?"

"Gertainly; I do not require them."

"Will you not at least look at my the merry laughter of the imprisoned sovereign and her new friend being heard outside in the corridor, led the guards, when changed, to announce to the public "that her majesty was a singularly fearless woman, for, not-withstanding the danger she was in, she laughed like a true daughter of Momus, and was having a fine time of it with the prince, who was evidently her

It is unnecessary to tell how the imprisoned queen passed her time in her confinement at the Lion d'Or. We are compelled, however, to record that her intimacy with the count became so great that once the guard at the door, spying through the key-hole, actually saw him a stately and majestic air : "Marie Autoinette of Austria, we have this morning received the following answer from the government of Paris, and hasten to Henry VIII, the "frunk hose" was communicate to you its contents." Here

Had the earth opened at his feet, the when once the queen was safe, and more utterly dumfounded. "So you guards placed at her door, the mayer of have played us a trick, have you, Mad-comiums. Her figure was graceful and tionaries in the saloon of the inv. he commanding, her features regular, her made them a patriotic speech, in which throne of France, even for a single eyes bright and vivacious. Her hair, be invoked the spirits of Brutus and night. You, however, have forced me in which still lingered traces of powder, was drawn high up over her ample fore-head, whilst one heavy curl hung down Confess, now, that it is not my fault if payy you have mistaken the crown and scep-tre of Melpomene for that of Gaul. But since I am free to proceed to Besancon, perhaps you will order my car-riage to the door, for a soon as I have finished my breakfast I intend to be off. Bon jour, messieurs," added she, bowing to the mortified council as it withdrew. Suddenly recollecting herself, "And you, my dear count, when you have done justice to that omelette, perhaps you will give me your arm and lead me down to the coach. Oh, how ark, the Irish being wealthy at that I wish that poor queen had left Paris time and having a boat of their own. whilst I was enacting her part, which I did in hope that these people, believing the paste to be a real diamond, would have let the true jewel pass!

Poor, poor queen! Attons, Susanne!
let us go. Count, you have served me as sovereign of France; will you not still continue to be my equire as tragedy queen?" The count bowed low, raised the fair actress's hand to his lips. Then, leaning on his arm, and followed by her faithful maid, Mademoiselle Sainval swept down the staircase to the carriage, in which the count took his seat

Character of General Lee. The more the thought and individual feeling of Gen. Lee becomes known, handsome young man was dragged into erate, wise in his rare common sense, the spartment by two guards. His clothes were dripping wet, he had lost recent speech before the Southern Historical Society at Atlanta, of the Hop. torical Society at Atlanta, of the Hon, B. H. Hill, we cannot refrain from giv-ing two extracts—the former of which shows his opinion of military presidents, and the latter gives us a glimpse of the vein of quiet irony that only on Pardon me, madame. Had I but sus. express political opinions ; for if we es-would have died rather than have so far forgotten what was due to my sovereign, especially in her hour of trouble. I am a gentleman by birth, the Count de Millettes. Unaware of your majesty's "Never, sir," he replied with a firm dignity that belonged only to Lee. "That I will never permit. Whatever talents I may possess (and they are but limited), are military talents. My education of the strongest poetical fever in three true rank, I followed your carriage, and training are military. I the struck by your surpassing beauty and compened.

"It is at the bottom of all," said Madame de Pryne, rising as if to search grane of pity, if not of love. Now that form, I shall not do the people the I recognize my error, as your majesty's form. I shall not do the people the most humble servant and subject, my injustice to accept high civil office, with life is at your service, and I crave only whose questions it has not been my hadrons to become familiar."

business to become familiar." "We made a great mistake, Mr. Hill, in the beginning of our struggle." 'What mistake was that, general?"

quite a number of battles. I have $350, while the agencies of W. J. Carl-L'could, and sometimes when ny plans others most prominent, pay from one-were completed, as far as I could see, they seemed to be perfect. But when I have fought them through I have dis
This is the way a Kentucky candiedge to me until it was too late!" lable." "How's yourn?" "Tollable." Then, after a pause, he added with a "All for me this time?" "Sorter beautiful, grave expression I can never tollable." forget: "I have no ambition but to -A razor left for half an hour in wato win our independence. I am willing ter's weight of sulphuric or muriatio to serve in any capacity to which the acid has been added, and then lightly authorities may assign me. I have wiped and allowed to rest for a few

the cause editing a newspaper !"

A couple were arranging terms for a be scientifically explained. separation, to avoid the scandal of a reference to a valuable ring given to the | fun) is rendered utterly impracticable desired concession. The friend made the demand. "What!" said the indig-sight of one another. Let every wife nant wife, "do you venture to charge be seated on the same side as her hus-yourself with such a mission to me? band, and as far from him as possible; Can you believe that I could tear myself then, although it may be carried on in from a gift which alone recalls to me undertones, you will never find the conthe days when my husband loved me? versation for a single moment cease.

Trunk Hose. During the reign of Queen Elizabeth, confessed that she had sold it six months before.

worn by the Earl of Leicester and his NUMBER 3.

FACTS AND FANCIES.

-It is said the best means to curb a -An Indiana paper talks learnedly about the "resr admirables" of the -Wealthy northerners continue to astonish the natives by building magnificent residences in Florida.

... " Wor-uk !" exclaimed a North Carolinian when offered a job, "do you s'pose I wor-uk, when coon-tracks are as thick as grass-blades?"

-Adam had some consolation when he fell. Fifteen or twenty acquaintances did not stand on the opposite corner and laugh at his mishap.

-The manufacture of imitation butter from suct has become a considerable mercantile interest. In Albany a company has just begun operations with a -Mr. O'Shea says the reason no Irish are mentioned in accounts of the flood, is that there were none in the

-" The day is not far distant," says a Raleigh paper, "when the world will begin to look on death as a journey to another country." Yes; and the jour-ney is one on which we can all of us go dead head, . -Amonument to the memory of French soldiers who fell in the war with Pru ia has been erected at Bourges. It bears this inscription : "The sword of France, broken in valuant hands, will be forged anew by their descendants," -When the Prince of Wales was married, Artemus Ward gave him some practical hin's as to how to manage Alexandra, founded on his own experience with Betsey Jane. "Now you're married, my boy," said he, "you can est

-A little boy caught his foot in some worsted with which his sister was working the sentence, "God is Love," in perforated card-board, and got a crack on the ear that will lay him up for a fortnight-if it does not injure him for life.

-Galvanism was discovered by a man named Swammerdamn, one hundred and thirty years before Galvani called attention to it. The world, however, will not willingly change the name in order to give him the honor belonging to him. Swammerdamnism would be awful.

-A western paper says that the way to kill off the poets who offer to write the strongest poetical fever in three

-The water supply of Paris is to be increased by the construction of the Montsouris Reservoir, which is to receive the water of the Vanne. It is to occupy an area of thirteen and one-half acres, and will contain 66,000,000 gallons of water. The daily water supply per head will be increased from 24 34 gallons. -The New York postal law brings a

"Why, sir, in the beginning we appointed all our worst generals to comgiven the work all the care and thought ton, Bates and Locke, W. W. Sharp and have fought them through I have discovered defects, and occasionally wondered I did not see some of the defects howdy, howdy." "Howdy, howdy." "Howdy, howdy." "Howdy, howdy, howdy." "Howdy, howdy, "Tollable." "How are do you de?" "Tollable." "How's all?" "Tollable." "Tollable." "Tollable." "Tollable." "Tollable." "Tollable." "Tollable." "Tollable." "Neighbors all well?" "Tollable." "Neighbors all well?" "Tollable." "Tollab serve the Confederacy and do all I can ter to which one twentieth of the latdone the best I could in the field, and hours, acquires thereby a minutely corhave not yet succeeded as I could wish. I roded surface, rendering its final sharp-I am willing to yield my place to these ening upon the hone magically easy. best generals, and I will do my best for Its temper is also greatly improved by the process, which actually makes a good blade out of a poor one. But why such effects from such causes is yet to -Punch gives the following advice judicial divorce, and a friend bad been employed by the husband to negotiate the matter. The latest mission was in their husbands. Not only flirting (i. e., wife before marriage by the husband. under such conditions, but there is a For this he would make a certain much. Gorgonism in each other's eyes which

No! this ring is my only souvenir of happiness for ever departed! 'Tis ell' school toacher, handed a problem to his —and here she wept—"that I now possess of a once fond husband." The first boy took it, looked at it a while, friend, however, insisted. The lady and said: "I pass." Second boy took supplies ed, grew obstinate, grew d sit, and said: "I turn it down." The third how stread at it a while and the said and said: "I turn it down." perate, the atened to submit to a public third boy stared at it a while, and divorce as a lesser evil than parting drawled out; "I can't make it." "Very with the cherished ring, and at last good, boys," said the parson, "we will confessed that she had sold it six proceed to ent for a new deal;" and, with this remark, the leather strap danced like lightning over the shoulders of those depraved young mathema-

If you will only keep your teeth clean acknowledged their deferential manner the worthy magistrate broke the seals compeers. This article of dress was they won't decay. The wonderful dentoward her with royal grace, and when and read: "Citizen mayor—Marie Anmade of velvet, silk, satin, or damask, trifices which are sold at fabulous prices made of velvet, silk, satin, or damask, trifices which are sold at fabulous prices informed that the upper floor of the hotel was placed at her service until further instructions were received from Paris, followed them thither with so quick and even gay a step that several of them afterward remembered it as an of them afterward remembered it as an of them afterward remembered it as an of the matter of the upper floor of the upper floo circumference of nearly three yards quarter of a dollar to last a long time, about the hips by a stuffing of carled When you go to bed, with a broad, soft horse-hair, and sometimes bran was tooth-brush go through the mouth thornsed. Its is stated by an English oughly. If disposed to a bad mouth, Jougne gave himself up to a transport of revolutionary joy. "He had the queen of France under look and key. Oa him, before three or four days were over, would be fixed the eyes of all the world. His name would descend to posterity, and live forever in the annuls of his cenntry."

Having assembled his fellow-func-

LAWSON MOGHEE LIBRARY KNOXVILLE, TENNESSEE

and become so violently denunciators as to create an i dignat reaction, and preceded to adopt the repealing ordin- how you liked him: eral assembly may provide; one allow- clamor for strangers; if he has public cothe, in Willismsport, Pa., and Elizabeth, N. J., and some other places, is other. Tell it to every one and then the bitter epposition of the German lament that there is so general dissatis-

Maryville, - - - Tennessee.

Harry Hill advertising dodge; and the | 2. Notice carefully any slip he makes formation of a committee of fifteen, di- while you are awake; point out the vines and laymen, to petition the legis-lature for certain temperance measures. dull portions to your children and friends; it will come round to him. women have obtained an order directing | deplore his want of common sense; let success. The Onio constitutional con- ant. On no account intimate your re-as to create an i dignat reaction, and an accession of strength to the women's side. In Educate the worthy landiady, on returning to the kitchen, proclaimed to her satelites that she never before had seen so in the court belonging to his prison under the surveillance of two keepers.

Marshal Bazaine, in his "seclutive worthy landiady, on returning to the worthy landiady, on returning to the kitchen, proclaimed to her satellites that she never before had seen so queenly a pers nage "Cest une verita der the surveillance of two keepers."

Minimum to the worthy landiady, on returning to the worthy landiady, on returning to the kitchen, proclaimed to her satellites that she never before had seen so queenly a pers nage "Cest une verita der the surveillance of two keepers."

part of the liquor-sellers' friends, as these people and the mob of Chicago have shown, does practically work in favor of the temperance movement.

1. Hear him "now and then." Drop cause for complaint one way or the bowls of broth.

New York, save a general disgust at the much the better.

tution. The Cincinnati distillers admit that their business has decreased fully 75 per cent, solely on account of the women's movement. They consider it a familiary which will a familiary which will be also and all the solely of the solely on the solely one account of the laity.

of the respectable portion of the community at the haired expressed at the German meeting to the Christian Sabbath; and to call all citizens, without distinction or party, to support the Sanday laws. Such behavior on the mob. The notable feature at the west, this past week, has been the visit of one hundred women to the Chicago common council, with a petition signed by 16.

O00, women against the repeal of the Sunday of the coverrates them, and tell him their